

WOMAN HELD FOR MURDER

Alberta Farmer Killed With Axe—His Widow Is Arrested

ST. PAUL, Alta., Aug. 20 (CP).—The wife of Mike Dranchuk, who was slain by an axe in his farm home at Flat Lake at 4:30 a.m. today is held in R.C.M.P. cells here. No charge has been laid as yet. It is alleged that Mrs. Dranchuk made an unsuccessful attempt to escape in the bush country at Flat Lake, twenty-one miles northeast of here, after fleeing to the farm home of a neighbor, William Dowhanuk. According to R.C.M.P. who effected the capture, Mrs. Dranchuk told Dowhanuk that she had refused $20 from her husband. He had wanted to give the money until after Tuesday when he would sell some pigs. The woman is said to have related that she thought perhaps he would never give her the money, so she had attacked him with the axe. Allegedly, after making the statement, she took to the bush and was caught by R.C.M.P. seven miles from her home.

BOY'S STORY

According to Bill, fourteen-year-old son of the Dranchuks, he had been sleeping in the same bed with his father. His younger brother, Pete, six, was in another bed with his mother in the same room. About 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning, he said, he was awakened by his father kicking and shouting, "I've been hit with an axe!" The father jumped out of bed, according to the story, and ran to a window in the kitchen of the two-roomed shack, looked out, staggered back to the bed and collapsed in a pool of blood. He did not speak again.

State Liquor Board, which had been bought in legal transactions recently, and $14,172 which the board has certified it owed the company. The rest is made up of assets held by Seattle banks and other institutions. The Government took steps to attach the property so that it may be levied upon in event of a favorable judgment.

COURT RULING

The bond forfeiture today was ordered by Federal Judge Jeremiah Neter, when Relf failed to appear for arraignment on Federal grand jury indictment returned a month ago, charging he and his son with conspiracy to smuggle the liquor into this country.

The defence, represented by Attorney Don G. Eggerman, made a protest over the forfeiture. The bonds were posted by the American Bonding Company, of Baltimore. The Government immediately took the first legal steps to collect the amount of the bond.

Two weeks ago the $100,000 bond of George Relf, his son, was also forfeited. The offences are non-extraditable, but the two are subject to arrest when they step on United States soil again.

Eggerman denied reports that the elder Relf plans to move to Germany.

HENRY T. RAINY CALLED TO REST

Speaker of U.S. House Passes on Eve of Seventy-Fourth Birthday

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Henry T. Rainey, picturesque Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, is dead. Apparently on the road to recovery from an attack of bronchial pneumonia, he suddenly developed angina pectoris last night, and died at 7:50 p.m., as three physicians, hastily summoned, stood by, unable to aid him. Today would have been his seventy-fourth birthday.

The Speaker's unexpected passing brought expressions of deep sorrow from political leaders in all parts of the United States—from President Roosevelt on down.

The President called him "a humanitarian whose fine patriotism thought first of all of what he conceived to be the well-being and interests of the common man."

The body will be cremated, in accordance with his wishes. Rainey said his husband had often expressed.

DEFENDS CAPITALISM; ATTACKS INJUSTICES

was bound to occur, because ownership of property was inherent to democracy. Neither a state socialism, as in Russia, nor a Mussolini dictatorship, as in Italy, could give the results from capitalism that a free democracy could.

While defending individual ownership and liberty of action, under which, he said, the average Canadian qualified as a capitalist, Mr. Stevens condemned such business as had used their opportunities to become wealthy through unfair competition and by abuse of the producers or the workers.

Mr. Stevens urged that the way to change the present system into what he called "here a little and there a little" making changes that would do away with abuses while retaining the vast uses.

He referred to business practices uncovered by the price spreads and mass buying inquiry. "I suppose I shall be pilloried for this," he remarked when referring to various things disclosed.

Each individual, working in the orbit of his own influence, could do a little to better conditions, and the sum would be much. On the other hand, to sit back and merely ask, "What are they going to do about it?" did not illustrate a very high type of Canadian citizenship.

The average of Canadian citizenship was high, but it did not follow that all Canadians were pulling their weight to solve the country's problems soundly.

Mr. Stevens spoke under the auspices of the Board of Trade and associated business organizations. R. W. Hinton, president of the Board of Trade, was chairman.

A large portion of his address was devoted to picturing world trade conditions.

Gold Company develop into a producing mine. It is expected that the Alberni district, especially that near the present working, will have a tremendous boom.

LITTLE STOCK OUT
Although the company is listed as a public company, very little stock is in the hands of the public, it being controlled by private interests. About twenty men are now employed, but it is expected that this number will be immediately increased.

Other properties which are being worked in the near neighborhood are the Morning Group (Taylor River), Regina and Alberni Royal Group, the W.W.W., besides a placer lease. The Regina and Alberni Royal Group are across China Creek from the Vancouver Island Coal Mines.

HAVE CLUE TO HIDING PLACE OF ABDUCTORS

slender clues in efforts to apprehend the kidnappers, Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck prepared rigid enactments to forestall the work of abductors. Police activity centred in Western Ontario, along the border territory, but secrecy prevailed on every move.

"I will ask the Ontario Legislature to enact a law giving police authority to close bank accounts, seal the deposit vaults, and generally take protective control of the affairs of all in position to pay ransom, while a unified police force trails any persons kidnapped in future," the Attorney-General declared, when interviewed at Ottawa.

WHOLE STORY SOON
"We are anxious to solve the Labatt riddle, but for the moment it can't be solved in the newspapers," he added. "The press will get the whole story soon, I hope."

An efficient police force to cut off escape of kidnappers, and eliminate ransom payment to make the crime unprofitable were the two factors to be stressed in combating the work of kidnappers, he said.

Police in searching for kidnappers of Labatt have been ordered by the Attorney-General to give out no information. All information to be made public will come from the Attorney-General himself.

SHAKE-UP PREDICTED

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (CP).—The Mail and Empire today says a shake-up in the Provincial Police force was predicted at Queen's Park as rumors circulated that Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck considered the handling of the John S. Labatt kidnapping case was "most inefficient."

Mr. Roebuck's statement on the abduction, calling for unification of all police effort on such cases, was considered to hold significance regarding the present personnel of the provincial force. The Mail and Empire says.

The Mail and Empire adds: "It is understood the Attorney-General spoke in very plain terms to the officers stationed at the Royal York Hotel when he learned that John S. Labatt, the kidnapped millionaire, had walked up to the room of his brother, Hugh, and had gone out again without the police on duty knowing anything about it. The result was that Mr. Roebuck took complete charge of the case himself."

DEAN OF MCGILL PASSES SUDDENLY

CHESTER, N.S., Aug. 20 (CP).—Dr. Ira Allan Mackay, dean of McGill University's faculty of arts and science, and one of Canada's best known educationalists, was dead here today in his fifty-ninth year.

Stricken in the midst of a holiday visit to this seaside resort, he died early yesterday. He had been here in search of recreation and health only two weeks when he was stricken Friday with a fatal heart attack.

Dean Mackay was professor of philosophy and then professor of law at the University of Saskatchewan, occupying a position on the staff there for ten years.

In 1920, he was appointed professor of constitutional and international law at McGill University. Later, he became professor of philosophy and dean of McGill College.

George Mackay, Edmonton, is a brother.

SURVEYING HAY NEEDS IN WEST

indicated that the tariff on hay would be removed shortly because of the acute feed shortage. While applying to the hay crops, removal of the regulations was expected to be effective for hay only.

ON HAY ONLY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—United States Department of Agriculture officials conferred today, on recommendations to be made to Secretary Henry Morgenthau concerning forage crops, on which tariff was lifted under President Roosevelt's proclamation of an emergency in the feed supply because of drought.

Indications were the regulations to be issued by the Treasury Department, upon a advice of the Department of Agriculture would, for the present, lift only the tariff on hay.

Officials said privately they did not expect barley and oats to be included immediately.

The livestock feed committee, appointed last week to conserve and insure full use of all supplies, has begun a study of available hay supplies in Canada.

MAIL DELIVERY BY PARACHUTE

British Postoffice Authorities Consider Speeding Up Postal Service

LONDON, Aug. 20.—From time to time the building of a railway station on the London Terminal Aerodrome at Croydon has been discussed. The electric train service passes nearby, and extension of the line to the aerodrome should not present great difficulties. Up to the present, however, the railway companies have not shown any dynamic enthusiasm for the innovation. Their new and serious interest in air travel, shown in formation of the company Railway Air Services, Ltd., which combines Imperial Airways and the four main railway groups in exploitation of air routes within the British Isles, may now incline them to act.

Mail delivery by parachute is one means of accelerating communications that is receiving the attention of the postoffice. Experts believe that dropping the mails by parachute is feasible over a vast portion of the country. The flat roof of London's postoffice at Mount Pleasant is an obvious and easy "target." Most cities have an open space of sufficient size somewhere near the centre; parachute delivery would eliminate the time lost in transit from the airport.

Last year a mail plane designed by the Royal Air Force, the Boulton-Paul company made its first flights. A detail of its equipment was a hatch intended for installation of parachute gear. It was also fitted to pick up mails from the ground without alighting.

The district attorney's office gave police names of twenty-three men supplied by members of the group attacked. He ordered that they be arrested and held without bail for questioning.

James Connor, twenty-two, recently married, student at Oregon State College, was killed. R. A. Griffin was wounded.

Both were members of the Columbia River Longshoremen's Association which incorporated during the strike and offered to take over the jobs of International Longshoremen's members who voted the walk-out.

WOULD SIDE WITH JAPAN
LONDON, Aug. 20 (CP-Havas).—The Morning Post, today, recommended that Great Britain side with Japan, as against the Soviet Union.

The Kremlin newspaper, said the Conservative newspaper, wants the Soviet Union to enter the League of Nations in order to use the League for its own ends, especially with regard to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The outcome, it was added, might be a quarrel with Japan, which would be "incredible foolishness."

The Daily Telegraph, also Conservative, devoting a voluminous supplement to the general Japan-Manchukuo situation, regretted the disappearance of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance of ten years ago. "It marked the beginning of chaos and confusion in Asia," the newspaper commented.

SECRET ACCORD DENIED

Balloonists Land Safely In Jugoslavia

MARIBOR, Jugoslavia, Aug. 20 (AP).—A balloon that raced through the cloudless stratosphere in the arms, at times, of a seventy-mile wind, spanning 1,100 miles between dawn and dusk, has come to a happy landing.

The balloon of the Belgian scientists, May Cosyns and Nereus Vandell, dropped out of the sky Saturday night into a corn field near Znojve, safe and undamaged.

The balloon failed to set a new height mark, doing no better than 16,000 metres (approximately ten miles), but the flight was productive, according to Professor Cosyns, "scientific observations of the highest value."

PORTLAND MAN IS MURDERED

The district attorney's office gave police names of twenty-three men supplied by members of the group attacked. He ordered that they be arrested and held without bail for questioning.

SOOKE, Aug. 20.—The remains of a human skeleton have been unearthed by two workmen, digging a ditch on the new pipe line on the Sooke main highway.

About four feet under the surface, imbedded in clam shell and hardpan, the bones are supposed to be those of an Indian of the early days.

The discovery was made by W. Shields and H. Heigensson on the shores of Sooke Harbor, by Charter's old mill, once a clam shell bed of the Indians.

CRAZED MIND IS SUSPECTED

Police Are Puzzled by Mysterious Happenings in Saskatoon

REGINA, Aug. 20 (CP).—The work of an unbalanced mind is seen behind a number of mysterious attacks on residents of the Punnichy district, most recent of which, the mixing of ground glass with sugar, sent Mike Buro, seventeen-year-old farm hand, to Regina General Hospital.

Buro, employed on the farm of Martin Frank, Punnichy district farmer, was given treatment in hospital in the city, Saturday, for glass poisoning. He was kept in hospital overnight and allowed to go, Sunday.

The glass, a pulverized lamp globe, was mixed in the sugar of which Buro took a small quantity. Suspicion points to the work of an unbalanced mind in the district, for the attack is on a par with a number of other odd occurrences. These include knocking at doors and fires in hay stacks distributed throughout the district, according to Punnichy.

The R.C.M.P. detachment at Punnichy is conducting investigations.

MORE EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL

Designer Convinced High Pressure Steam Turbines Better Than Diesels

"High pressure turbines, due to metallurgical advances, have taken the efficiency palm from Diesel engines for ship propulsion. A new and faster American freight fleet is bound to come, aided by Federal funds," according to W. L. Bunker, former vice-president of the United States and the Texas Company, of New York. He is the co-designer of the Manhattan and the Washington, which are gaining fame on the Atlantic for their efficiency and travel volume.

These two ships have been accorded highest efficiency from the 412-pound pressure boilers, approached only by the Empire of Britain. Their main units, Mr. Bunker states, consume only 58 of a pound of fuel per horsepower per hour for propulsion, and only 4 for all purposes, including electric galley, heating and the like.

Under best working conditions, he declares, Diesels consume 4 pounds of fuel and Diesel fuel costs approximately double that of burning C fuel. Diesel repairs, he says, are extremely costly, whereas repairs on a modern steam turbine are "practically nil—only an occasional tube."

"Vastly greater pressures are possible now, than when the Manhattan and the Washington were designed in 1929," Mr. Bunker states. "In fact, the Foster-Wheeler Company now is designing prospective American freighters with working pressures up to 1,200 pounds, with a maximum total temperature of 900 degrees. They expect 10 per cent greater efficiency than in the Manhattan and the Washington."

Character in Man Keynote in Address By British Jurist

Baron Tomlin of Ash Is Heard by Distinguished Company at Luncheon Under Auspices of Canadian Club and Victoria Bar Association

"It is not the theories of politicians or economists that really matter; but it is the characters and the hearts of men," Baron Tomlin of Ash told a distinguished gathering of Victorians yesterday, at a luncheon arranged jointly by the Canadian Club and the Victoria Bar Association, at the Empress Hotel. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, host to Baron Tomlin during his stay here, attended the luncheon.

With Old World courtesy, simplicity and charm of expression, and a high sense of the human values in life, Baron Tomlin led his hearers over the pages of history, which, through eventful centuries, have built up the lasting traditions behind the British Empire. He spoke quietly of the need of maintaining principles which through hundreds of years have made for stability and the highest form of freedom known to man, and appealed, in conclusion, for solidarity in Empire thought.

HOSPITABLE LAND

It had been a moving and impressive experience to travel 6,000 miles under one flag, and to find one's own tongue and habit of mind at the end of the journey, the speaker observed.

Baron said, Canada's hospitality was vaster than its great area, and this applied equally to Victoria.

He had been intrigued often with the speculation as to the probable course of the world's peoples had psychological turning points in history, largely accidental, been different.

What if Jacques Cartier had not discovered Canada? Would Quebec have followed the thirteen colonies? What if Wolfe had failed? Similarly, how different history might have been but for small circumstances, largely fortuitous at the time, the speaker observed.

Empire Loyalties, and to the trail-blazers East and West, including Cook, Vancouver, Mackenzie, and those who had pushed rail lines across Canada from coast to coast. It was the characters and hearts of men that mattered.

Character and outlook were affected by environment. Business and professional men in the Old Country were influenced by the large number of venerable institutions, with traditions that give a benediction for many centuries. Business in the city of London looked back on the old lively companies of the twelfth century.

Tradition and discipline for six centuries had been outgrowths of the creation of the Inns of Court in the reign of Henry III. Originally the church supplied the advocates, but a rift had come, and Henry III had solved the difficulty by appointment of others. The tradition of equable law and even-handed justice was one of the principle factors in British stability. There were many others. No encroachment should be permitted on these cherished possessions.

"Fix your affections not on an individual, who often is so sadly disappointing, but upon the great corporate principles that give a continuity to life that cannot be had in any other way," Baron Tomlin continued.

APPROVE PLANS FOR NEW HOTEL

Large Recreation Hall Is Feature of Belvedere Hotel Replacement

Plans for the new Belvedere Hotel at Sooke have been completed and approved by the Liquor Control Board. It was announced yesterday by Graham Johnson, architect, who has been retained by the Robillard brothers to plan and supervise the construction work.

The new hotel will be much larger and of more attractive design than the former, it was stated. It will be 120 feet long and 100 feet wide. There will be forty guest rooms, lounge room, dining-room, office, bar and recreation hall.

The recreation hall is a new idea incorporated in the hotel so that it can be made use of during the Fall and Winter seasons when there is no tourist trade.

This hall will have accommodation for two badminton courts, and may be used for basketball games, dances and other forms of recreation essential to community life such as is found at Sooke.

Instead of verandas there will be terraces, where afternoon tea may be served.

It is expected that the hotel, when completed, will cost approximately $50,000.

Delegates from all parts of Vancouver Island are attending the seventeenth annual convention of the Vancouver Island District of the Ancient Order of Foresters, which convened here yesterday, and will conclude its business today.

Alderman James Adam, representing the City Council, officially welcomed the delegates at the afternoon session, after which registration was proceeded with, and committees appointed.

Last night the delegates were guests at a social, held in the A.O.F. Hall, by Court Vancouver, which is the oldest lodge on the Pacific Coast, having been formed in 1872.

Mrs. C. Mrs. of Lantaville, is presiding over the sessions. She holds the distinction of being the only woman chief ranger on the North American continent.

This afternoon officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the next meeting place chosen. The convention will be brought to a close with a dance, to be held in the A.O.F. Hall, at 8 o'clock tonight.

BULLET WOUND MAY BE FATAL

Wilfred Poochley Suffers Serious Injury When Gun Discharges in His Hand

DUNCAN, Aug. 20.—Wilfred Poochley, Indian, was perhaps fatally wounded near his home in the Comlaken Indian village, near here, this afternoon.

He was taken to the hospital. There is little hope held for his recovery, police reported. While details concerning the shooting were meagre, it was ascertained that Poochley may have been planning to go cougar hunting, having heard of his brother's success in securing bounty money.

It is believed he may have been cleaning his gun when it discharged, causing the wound.

HERR HITLER'S VICTORY

Anywhere else save in Germany the character of the victory won at Sunday's polls would be regarded as conclusive, decisive and overwhelming. It was a one-sided contest. Herr Hitler had no opponent. Apparently he had been defeated something like chaos would have ensued. As it was his assumption of the supreme power in Germany was acclaimed by a nine to one vote. In a democratic country this result would be regarded as almost unbelievable. Under the new regime Germany can hardly be compared to a democratic country. It is Hitlerism or nothing, there is no middle ground. That four and a quarter millions of people should have voted against Hitlerism is the phenomenon of the election. The Chancellor's announcement that the "last 10 per cent of the nation must and shall be won for National-Socialism" is in the nature of a threat and an admonition.

The election in Germany had the character of a burlesque. The plebiscite asked the people to approve Herr Hitler and gave no alternative, save that of disapproval, with no government of any other character proposed. The presumption is that had a majority of the people disapproved civil war would have ensued, because the present Government in Germany is not one that would give up the reins of power without a struggle. As it is, with the nine to one verdict given at the polls, Nazism has the right to consider that it has received a mandate, and a most decisive one.

For Europe and the world the next consideration is what will be the effect on Germany's foreign policy. Herr Hitler has a power now unequalled in any country, of a character to which Signor Mussolini does not possess. The significance of the vote can easily be exaggerated. What is being stressed more than anything else in comment on the result is that there was opposition at all, and that it should have come from one-tenth of the nation. Perhaps that opposition is an indication that Germany is beginning to think twice of the possible outcome of a dictatorship.

MEAGRE RESULTS OF CO-OPERATION

There is no doubt that there is a spirit of strong co-operation being maintained under the new railway dispensation in the country, but that spirit does not and cannot mean the putting into effect of these economies which are so necessary if the taxpayers are to be relieved. It is true that competition between the two transcontinentals has been replaced by co-operation, within certain limits. It is wholly probable, however, that the efforts of the Canadian National management are hampered and the scope of its co-operative activity restricted for political reasons. Otherwise there would be economies put into effect which would save the country from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 annually. The savings so far hardly amount to more than a few millions on the basis of what has been done since a Board of Trustees has been appointed to administer the affairs of the C.N.R.

Under the new dispensation there is no doubt whatever that wasteful duplication of facilities continues. Mr. E. W. Beatty has expressed the opinion that the fundamental issue as to whether the country can or should attempt to afford the luxury of railway duplication will not be altered through the results of another year of co-operation. In other words, economic waste is to continue, and it is not the fault of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There are many hundreds of miles of railway in the country which could be torn up in the interests of economy. Sectional and political reasons prevent this being done.

The only really permanent solution of the railway problem is unification of the two transcontinentals under one control, and divorced from any political influence. Then the railways as a whole would be run for business reasons and their operation based on economical usage. Such control would mean the saving of substantial sums of money that would make capital available for any new transportation facilities required from time to time. It would mean, moreover, that only such transportation facilities as are economical would be maintained and undertaken. There is political opposition to unification, chiefly coming from the supporters of national ownership. It is a pity that the adherents of the C.N.R. as a separate entity controlled and operated by the state do not, in the interests of economy, view the matter from the standpoint of the taxpayers as a whole.

FAME OR POWER—WHICH?

When someone proposed that women should have the vote the great Dr. Samuel Johnson objected on the ground that women possess so much power by nature that it is inadvisable, even dangerous, to add to it by legal enactment. Few will be inclined to dispute the first part of the great moralist's statement, whatever doubts may arise regarding the soundness of the inference he draws therefrom. That women naturally wield great power is indeed almost universally admitted. This raises a cognate question upon which there is much difference of opinion. Is the desire for power the prevailing feminine motive or is it only one among many strong incentives to action? Human motives operate in varying degrees of force in men and women, e.g., the desire for knowledge, sometimes called the principle of emulation; the desire for superiority, or the principle of ambition; the desire for power, or the love of fame. These are but a few of the springs of action, but they are important ones.

Probably no universal law can be laid down, but some support can be found for the proposition that generally speaking love of power characterizes women, whereas the prevailing masculine motive is not desire for power but love of fame. There are no available statistics in this field of study. We have only opinion and conjecture and such authorities as there are. Two witnesses of very different mentality testify to the widespread love of fame. Milton thought and said that "Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (that last infirmity of a noble mind) to scorn delights and live laborious days." In the House of Commons once a member asked: "What are we here for?" Disraeli at once replied in a single word: "Fame." The desire for fame can hardly exist in the human breast without some intermixture of something like pride; but as the word "pride" as used in the Bible is almost always, if not invariably, employed in a bad sense, perhaps we had better call it proper pride or the sense of what befits one, and prevents one from following an unworthy course.

Women are commonly said to have more curiosity than men. If this is true it is in line with the theory that they desire power more than anything else. The reason is plain. Women know by instinct the truth of Bacon's famous aphorism, "Knowledge is power." Curiosity is the desire for knowledge, and obviously the desire for knowledge and the desire for power must go hand in hand. Women indeed possess an unerring insight which enables them to detect and utilize the kind of knowledge they require for their purposes and plans. One's desire for power may indeed be measured by the degree of his her pride. Along with the desire for fame goes the principle of emulation, the desire for superiority. The average male human cares more for superiority, which brings with it reputation or fame, far more than he does for actual power. Women, on the other hand, ordinarily care less for fame. They can get along bravely without the esteem of their sisters as long as they have and enjoy real power. They desire power and delight in the exercise of it. Historical instances may, no doubt, be cited by way of exception. There have been a number of over-ambitious men and vain women in history and fiction, it is true; but in the absence of statistics, reflection will perhaps support the generalization that men seek fame and women love power.

IMPERIAL TRADE AGREEMENTS

The opponents of reciprocal trade agreements within the Empire, among whom is numbered Mr. Mackenzie King, see no satisfaction in the latest trade figures issued by Ottawa. In the last fiscal year Canada's trade increased by $132,000,000 and of this amount a sum of $76,000,000 was contributed by Empire trade and as a direct result of the Ottawa pacts. Since Empire trade increased so substantially, and world trade as well, the argument that the Ottawa agreements would hamper world trade is not sustained. The outcome of the Imperial Economic Conference has justified the hopes of its promoters. Moreover there is a better feeling of imperial solidarity because of closer trade relations. We do not think that Mr. Mackenzie King, if in power, would venture to destroy trade agreements which have been a distinct factor in Canada's economic recovery from the time of depression.

THE YESTERDAYS AND THE TOMORROWS

(Sir William Watson is seventy-six years old.)
Long watching wars and feuds, at last I am old.
The friends of my far youth are in the grave;
Buried deep beneath the unsmiling brave,
Whose hearts the embrace of the sea did leave full cold.

And now, though small the lure of fame or gold,
There is one boon that I indeed must crave!
Some gift the Gods to luckier mortals gave?
Ah! that the Gods would grant me but this fate:
This Nation, that survives the storms of Fate,
Still young in soul; still rich by secret doer
And cryptic birthright; casting rage and hate
From her remembrance throughout each hour
Strengthening the Forts of Peace, that they may tower
Impregnable might, and invincibly great.

—William Watson.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Speak softly. It is better far
To be ruled by love than fear.
—Framment from Memory.

The voice of Germany endorses the policies of Hitler. In the affairs of modern Germany the unexpected never happens. The voice of Germany could do nothing else except endorse the policies of the dictator, for if it had voted no instead of yes, it ran the risk of extinction. It is only human nature to choose the safe side in preference to the dangerous side. The cultured and free-thinking modern German people are ruled as much by fear of their dictator as the ignorant people of other parts of the world used to be ruled by fear of their gods.

Hitler claims that his despotic courses have been actuated by fear of the other nations of the world. In extenuation of his action in usurping the chair of the president Hitler declared that the hand of all the world was against Germany and that the salvation of the nation depended upon prompt and executive and united national action. The dictator has received the endorsement he demanded, and now what of the future of the Fatherland? Hitler is going to rule by fear, not by love. If the hand of all the world is against him, there is assurance that the hearts of all the people of Germany are with him. That is the question notwithstanding the result of the plebiscite.

Did the first act of the dictator in ordering a movement of persecution against the Jews and proclaiming the supremacy of the "Nordic" race strengthen the position of Germany as one of the chief of the nations of the world? Did the incompressible action of the dictator in setting up what he called a national church and starting a new religion based upon paganism have the effect of uniting the people of Germany against the alleged or anticipated aggression of the other nations of the world? The Reformed Church of Germany and the ancient Church of Rome have refused to recognize the new national church. In raising a religious issue and making it a plank in the national political platform, surely Herr Hitler made a blunder which ultimately must be fatal to the vaulting ambitions of the dictator. That was a movement calculated to permanently divide the German people into two camps, for the population of the country is divided into two great and powerful religious bodies, the Catholics of the south and the Lutherans of the north.

Intolerance breeds divisions, divisions and sometimes persecutions. The nations of the world today which are the most powerful in counsel and action are the nations which are most tolerant in their religious concepts and principles. There probably would have been no British Empire today but for the tolerance of its rulers in their relations with foreign countries and different races.

It is not true that the hand of all the world is against Germany. It is the truth all the principal nations of the world sympathize with Germany and are eager to lend her a helping hand through her difficulties. The people of the other nations neither hate nor fear Germany; but those people do not trust the Germans nor under the domination of Hitler. The position of Germany today appears to be that she is distrusted abroad and feared at home. The cordial relations which a few months ago existed between Italy and Germany have been severed. The cause of that disruption was the attitude of Germany towards Austria.

The motive of the Nazis in their attempt to upset the existing order in Austria was partly political and partly religious. Rome could not be expected to stand meekly by and witness the dissolution of the empire daughter of the church. Besides there was a suspicion that Austria was not the ultimate goal of Nazi Germany. Austria was but a step of a contemplated stride in the direction of the frontiers of other nations. Although Hitler has recently preached peace, his previous utterances portended war and conquest, the expansion of Germany and a warm place in the sun. The new dictator was quite as emphatic on that point after the war as the old Al Highest was before the war.

If modern Germany desires the friendship of the world she will have to mend her ways, and either change her rulers or try to knock sense into the heads of her dictators. Germany may be ruled for a time by fear, but her relations with other parts of the world cannot be improved and cemented by threats of force. If Germany has not a friend in the world, that is her own grievous fault and terrible misfortune. If the internal affairs of Germany are in a desperate state owing to decline in trade and failure of crops, that is a sad thing for the German people and a bad thing for their rulers. For there will be a crisis in the affairs of the nation during the coming winter. People who are driven to desperation have been known to resort to desperate measures.

THE EXAMPLE OF NORRIS

Sir,—If the new idea is approved, the income might be used here for various improvements. In the cathedral a bell like the bells of Rouen; in some central location, a public library like that of Boston, stocked with books of today, and in many places up the Island, preservation of our natural and unimpaired beauties. There is another possibility—to donate to the public. This has often been done with inventions and discoveries, but care must be taken that, while ostensibly given to the people, it is not virtually doled out to vested interests. Yet another possibility arises, to donate to the League of Nations, though it is doubtful whether that body would or could accept. Here, again, the question would arise whether the development instead of being presented to the thirty-nine signatories of the recent London Convention, should be given to three or four nations. Since this possibility is presented in a pamphlet, published April, 1934, entitled "Effective Pacifism," a document worth anyone's time. Doubtless all your readers have wondered whether the League might, in time, have an international dollar good everywhere at face, just as its international passports have been such a boon to many, and may yet in the future be issued to all who are entitled to them.

If these things should work out, it would still be possible to organize a company which would be free from all attempts to deceive or defraud the investor, to do voluntarily one of the things which Mr. Roosevelt is attempting to do by law. Whether or not faith in his success is growing, has been discussed by Professor W. P. Willcox, in the New York Herald-Tribune, in an interpretation of the recent polls made by The Literary Digest, from which he concludes that the trend of opinion in nine-tenths of the United States is adverse to the Roosevelt policy. The year of reckoning is fast approaching, and may spell success or failure. In the latter, how many of us will understand what has happened and its effect on Canada, tensely expressed by one prominent citizen in one word: "Ruination."

The reader may naturally query, of what avail that he know much or little of what all the world today, and what has been attempted south of the border, when the wisest statesmen are baffled. Whether such an attitude is warranted, however, may fairly be questioned. History is replete with instances of men from the ranks turning the tide of affairs. Edward Bellamy, an unknown man, awoke to find himself famous. While it is easy to riddle details of the book, yet his picture of a social state directed by intelligence is remarkable for the amount of it which has come to pass within forty-seven years, as against the one hundred and thirteen years supposed to have elapsed by the author. Not the least interesting development of these forty-seven years is the fact that which such a state as depicted was then criticized as insipid, we now find life unaltered in its essentials, and the objection pointless. Long ago a workman in a small Italian town, at the peril of his life, uttered three needed words which met the situation and immortalized him and his town. Possibly some man here may immortalize Victoria by answering the riddle; why hunger in the midst of plenty; lack of work in superabundance of opportunity?

PACIFISM

Sir,—Your leading article on "Imperial Defence," in the issue of the 16th inst., and your short editorial in that of the previous day on "Hope of World Peace," suggesting as their sanctions do policies and ideals which are hard to reconcile, are obviously complimentary. Both are designed to justify increasing expenditure for armed preparation on the part of Great Britain.

Dr. Hensley Henson, whose remarks upon the subject of "Disarmament" you quote, does not believe that Great Britain can speak either effectively or self-respectingly in the councils of the nations and upon the issue of world peace if she follows the mirage of pacifism and disarms in the face of an armed world. His language clearly implies that she should be armed to the teeth, or at least to the level of the other great armed powers. Through a bishop of the Anglican Church and presumably a representative of the mind of the Prince of Peace he believes that Britain can only be effective factor in promoting mutual understanding and international good will, by rolling up her sleeves, clenching her fists, and in general, assuming a posture of defence. It is by such words and subtle sophistries as he propounds that militarists the world over are seeking support for their colossal programmes.

Happily in this, as in some other matters, Dr. Henson does not voice the mind of the Anglican Church. The recent "Manifesto" of the Archbishop of Canterbury on behalf of the British Christian churches reflects a far different point of view.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of August 21, 1884)

Bitten by Spider—A resident of Nanaimo the other day was bitten by a spider on the thumb. The thumb and then the arm became swollen. Then the virus extended to the arm and now the sufferer is a raving maniac.

Paul Driving—Yesterday afternoon, as the St. R. P. R. R. blower blew, a man driving an express cart started off at a terrific rate down Station Street. The descent of that street is not a small one, and the rocks were very slippery. Had a crowd been on the street at that time, someone would surely have been hurt. The authorities should look into this matter, as it is an everyday occurrence with some of the drivers, and should they continue in their recklessness, it will end in a big smash-up.

Man Killed—About a cyclist yesterday afternoon, as workmen were engaged in clearing the St. Ann's, the cyclist, who was wearing a number—an Irishman named John Moran—was crushed beneath a heavy plank on the deck of a scow lying alongside. Death was instantaneous.

Referring to armaments on their present scale His Grace says: "Such armaments may give to an individual nation a sense of security, but they only do so at the cost of increasing the sense of insecurity among other nations." That is, they tend to aggravate the situation which threatens the peace of the world. Our danger lies not in the "mirage of pacifism" but in the "mirage of preparedness."

The difficulty which Bishop Henson sees in pursuing peaceful councils and supporting peaceful policies, is, in the fact that the nations of the world are not on the same moral level. Obviously not, but are we to assume, as his language suggests, that we are on a higher moral level than other nations? The world re-sents that tone of moral superiority which the British people sometimes adopt. Educated Orientals are alarmed lest their people adopt some of our standards. Europe today is an armed camp. Seething with unrest, suspicious and fear. Do we not share the responsibility for that condition? Have we done our best to equip the nations with armaments. When British firms put on an exhibition of fighting aircraft and induce the buyers of over twenty nations to attend, as was the case a few weeks ago, it is sanctimonious humbug to talk amiably about the nations of the world not being on the same moral level.

HEROIC RESCUE

Sir,—It is my earnest desire to publicly thank Mr. Fred Sanders, Esquire, for his heroic rescue of your valuable paper, and also bring the following matter to the attention of the Royal Humane Society, as such an act of heroism should receive the recognition it warrants. Mr. Sanders and myself were fishing, last Sunday, in an Up-Island lake, he on the rocks on the opposite shore and I on an improvised raft. We were separated by some considerable distance, when it was my misfortune to capsize the raft and fall into very deep water. Not being able to swim I remember only that I struggled for some time and then evidently lost consciousness.

During this time Mr. Sanders' attention had been attracted by my wife's screams from shore and I am led to believe that Mr. Sanders dived fully clothed and brought me out of the dangerous "kill" at the bottom of the lake, swam ashore with me and undoubtedly saved my life.

In view of the foregoing, I would deem it a great privilege if you would kindly give this matter the publicity it rightly deserves.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120° Meridian west. It is computed from 9 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during the successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.5 feet to the height of high water as above given. To find depth of water on the sill at the Southern drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

SEEKING LOAN FROM PROVINCEEsquimalt Council Moves to Secure $1,500 Grant for Relief Projects

A loan of $1,500 will be sought today from the Provincial Government, by Esquimalt Council, in order that relief work may be carried on in the municipality.

At last night's council session a letter from G. H. Sedger, municipal solicitor, was read, in which it was pointed out that a by-law will have to be introduced before the money can be borrowed. However, it was felt that, as funds are urgently needed, a personal call on the Government would suffice until the by-law is introduced and passed at a special meeting to be called in the next few days.

The solicitor declared that up to July 31, 1934, the municipality's share of relief costs were $1,432. Government regulations call for the council to seek a loan for the amount spent on relief from the first of the year.

MODIFY MOTION

At a special meeting, recently, notice of motion was made that a $4,000 loan by-law would be introduced, but this, however, was modified.

Reeve Alexander Lockley said, "We were given to understand this business of borrowing from the Government was pretty easy, but there are all kinds of loopholes." He also reminded the council that no provision was made in the 1934 estimates for relief, since the council believed a loan for this purpose could be secured on a long-term basis from the British Columbia authorities.

A delegation from the Workers' Welfare Association was refused a hearing by the council. The welfare group wrote recently asking an increase in the relief scale. The council decided to answer the association by letter.

Moon Better Known Than Certain Parts Of Earth's Surface

P. H. Hughes Tells Capacity Audience at Victoria College Fascinating Things About Earth's Satellite—Some of 30,000 Craters Seen

DESPITE the fact that a sky full of moons (approximately 100,000 would be needed to fill the sky) would give only one-sixth as much light as the sun, the moon occupies a much more important place in romantic literature than its source of light, P. H. Hughes informed a capacity meeting of the Summer-series group of the Astronomical Society, last evening, at Victoria College.

The lecture proper, the subject of which was "The Moon," occupied only about an hour of the evening, the last part of the programme being an outdoor observation work, during which the surface of the moon, thanks to the clear night, was examined by means of eight-inch and three-inch telescopes and field-glasses brought by several of the members. During this period the lecturer indicated a few of the larger of the 30,000 craters that dot the surface of the moon; some of the larger mountains, including the Apennines, the Caucasus, the Alps, over 20,000 feet in height (the height determined by the shadows cast), and the so-called "seas," which are in reality flat areas showing very little detail among the principal ones being Serenitatis and Tranquillitatis, the size of the Mediterranean Sea. These two seas are what appear to the unaided eye as the eye of "the man in the moon."

The light of the earth reflected to the moon is fourteen times that of our moonlight. That is why at new moon the whole moon is dimly visible, the phenomenon being due to the reflection of the light from the earth lighting up that portion of the moon upon which the sun-light does not fall. One of the particularly interesting statements was that from the moon the earth would appear to be always fixed in the sky, in the same position night and day, this being due to the fact that one hemisphere of the moon is always facing the earth.

Still imagining the audience to be gazing from the moon earthwards, Mr. Hughes said that the sun would be eclipsed by the earth at the time we have an eclipse of the moon. Tides were briefly referred to. Tides were caused by the sun and moon, but chiefly by the moon, because of the greater intensity of the attraction of gravity, the moon being so much nearer than the sun. Our tides are actually high several hours after the moon reaches the meridian, this being due to the time that it takes for the action of gravity to take effect when continents, islands and submarine continents are in the way.

Many diagrams had been prepared to illustrate some of the points: the slope of the moon's axis; the orbit of the moon around the earth; the difference between a sidereal and a synodical month; the latter originally being called a "moon," and one illustrating why the moon appears so large on the horizon. It was also explained why the winter full moon is very high in the heavens, and the summer moon very low in the heavens. Eclipses, apogee and perigee, annular eclipse, and the periods of the moon were all described. By diagram it was shown that at certain times a full moon would not be visible north of latitude 62 for a few days.

THE EARTH
The more imaginative members of the audience found much interest in a hypothetical visit to the moon, looking back at the earth, which would seem about four times as large in the heavens as the moon does to the earth-gazer. The continents might not be seen, owing to our atmosphere, but there would be a belted appearance, corresponding to the trade winds. The "seas" would be similar to those of the moon, but at opposite times.

J. RICHARDSON FATALLY HURT

Seventeen-Year-Old Youth Injured When Motorcycle Crashes Into Truck

James Richardson, Church Road, Sooke, aged seventeen years, was fatally injured yesterday at 9:30 a.m., when he was thrown with terrific force against a motor truck, following a collision between the truck and the motorcycle he was riding on Gorge Road, near Tillamook Road. He died at 12:20 p.m. in the Royal Jubilee Hospital. An inquest will be held tomorrow, at 10 a.m., in S. J. Curry & Son's Funeral Home.

Wilfred Pendray and his sister, Miss Doreen Pendray, 2800 Saanich Road, were riding in a sidecar attached to the motorcycle. Quick action on the part of Mr. Pendray possibly saved his sister and himself from serious injury, when the young motorcycle driver was hurled from his seat following the collision. Mr. Pendray immediately jumped from the sidecar into the seat and saved the motorcycle from careening across the roadway and down a small bank.

MACHINES CRASH
As reported to Sooke police, the motorcycle was proceeding west, and had started down Eberts Hill, near Tillamook Road. A short distance ahead was an automobile, which was about to pass a parked vegetable wagon. The driver of the auto applied his brakes suddenly as he swung out to pass the wagon, because of an approaching wood truck.

To avoid crashing into the auto ahead, young Richardson turned his motorcycle into the centre of the road just as the wood truck, proceeding east, drew abreast of him. Into the rear of the truck the motorcycle crashed, and the driver, hurled free of his machine, struck the truck with his head and chest. The driver of the truck was A. Stephen, 217 Inverness Street.

James Richardson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Richardson. Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Alex and Frank, and three sisters, Nellie, Mollie and Hilda. Alex Richardson left Victoria on Thursday last, in company with E. W. Welch, to drive to Queen's, where the former was to go forward on foot to Barkerville to visit John Jensen and to see the Cariboo Gold Quartz property. Provincial Police, at the request of parents, sent out a wireless call last evening, in an effort to recall Alex Richardson, to notify him of the death of his brother, James.

A popular member of Sooke district, James Richardson was known to many. He was a member of the Young People's Society of Knox Presbyterian Church.

MAN SHOT DEAD IN B.C. BUSH

Steve Zadorozny, of Pineview, Killed Beside Berry Patch in North

Provincial Police and volunteer searchers in the Pineview district of Prince Rupert came on the body of Steve Zadorozny on Sunday, under circumstances leaving little doubt that the man was accidentally shot, possibly in mistake for a bear, according to advices received here yesterday.

On the Sunday previously, Zadorozny left his home in the Pineview area to pick berries. Alarm spread when he failed to return, and search was immediately instituted. The body was found a week later beside two cans of berries in bush near the home of Philip Ivanovitch. Twenty-five yards from the body was a 38.55-calibre cartridge, ejected from a modern high-power rifle.

Ivanovitch, who had taken part for a day in search for the missing Zadorozny, was found dead last week from gunshot wounds the police held were self-inflicted. The wounds in his case came from a 38.55-calibre rifle bullet. Ballistic experts may be employed in an effort to clear up a double tragedy without present explanation. Both men were resident at Pineview.

Splendid Work Being Done Amid Rigorous Conditions in Peace River Block — Miss Nancy Dunn Has Praise for Women's Institutes

Miss Nancy Dunn, Registered Nurse, M.B.E. of Sunset Prairie, Peace River District, was the special speaker at a meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, and the story which she told of her work in the Far North was full of absorbing interest and dramatic appeal. Though she had time last evening only to touch lightly upon the many phases of her work in connection with public health service, under the direction of the Provincial Red Cross Society, the audience was able to conjure up a very real picture of what is being done for the pioneers of that district. Rigorous climate, transportation difficulties, poor housing, lack of many essentials in the matter of food, medical supplies, etc., coupled with ever present lack of ready money, were factors in the hard living of the country. Settlers have been allowed to establish homesteads in extremely isolated districts, Miss Dunn said, a serious drawback in times of sickness or emergency.

PREVENTIVE WORK
"Preventive work is one of the main planks in our platform," Miss Dunn said in describing her work among the children of the twelve schools under her special care. "We meet the problem of the common pail and dipper and the one towel for the use of all the pupils; going to the bathroom is a problem, in fact there was 60-1-2 per cent in one school, though we are fortunate to have been supplied by the Government with iodine tablets. Then the housing problem must be faced, and insufficient clothing is another important point.

Miss Dunn paid a special tribute to the Women's Institutes in the Peace River area, of which there are eight, all doing splendid work and proving to be "the backbone of our endeavors." Miss Dunn had carried on three nursing classes among the members and these had proved of great interest. At Lone Prairie, a very isolated settlement, both the men's and women's institutes were active. Miss Dunn spoke of her gratitude to the Government for supplying cocoa to provide a hot drink for the school children, and for cod liver oil, so necessary during the long winter months. A better-sheby contest had attracted wide attention in the district and hundreds of letters from the mothers were proof of their keen interest. There was both pathos and humor in the incidents which the speaker related, and experience which would make almost unbelievable reading in any epic of the Northland, were introduced as matters of everyday occurrence in the life of the Peace River nurse.

COMMISSIONER SPEAKS

Mrs. H. P. Hodges, who was chairman at the meeting, expressed on behalf of the audience of members and friends, a most hearty vote of thanks to Miss Dunn. Mr. Corry Wood, provincial commissioner of the Red Cross Society, added a word of appreciation of Miss Dunn's work in particular and spoke of what the Red Cross is accomplishing in the outpost hospitals in the Peace River block.

Dr. H. E. Young, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, added a word about public health work and of the splendid effect which it is having upon the school children of the country. Since 1921, when the work began, the progress made had been phenomenal, he said, and British Columbia might be proud that its universities were the first in Canada to establish the nursing course.

Vancouver Swimming Star Charged With Being Professional and Breaking Residence Rule

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20 (CP).—Two protests, one against the violation of the Canadian residence rule, and the other charging him with being a professional, have been filed with the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association in connection with Fred Rossiter, star of the Vancouver Crystal Swimming Club. The protests were filed following the Pacific International Swim Gala at West Vancouver, Saturday. Percy Norman, coach of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club, protested that Rossiter, former Portland Ore. resident, is an American citizen, and as such, should be classed as a visitor and ineligible to compete for a Canadian club.

The Seattle Crystal Swimming Club's protest charged that Rossiter was being kept here by his coach, which, under rules of the United States Amateur Swimming Association, professionalizes Rossiter and any swimmers competing against him.

Mearns, secretary, announced yesterday.

Favor Northern Road—Dr. Evan W. Holway, a member of the American Legion, at Seattle, in the city yesterday on a brief visit, said great interest is being shown south of the line on the prospect of future construction of the British Columbia-Yukon-Alaska highway. "Hit" Her—A householder in the Collinson Street area reported to the city police yesterday a misadventure with a wasp. Seated on a stone, the complainant noticed a wasp hovering around in the vicinity, as if there was a nest nearby. Defeats Sarah Palfrey in Straight Sets — Pair Win Doubles

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 20.—Helen Hull Jacobs, Berkeley, California, won the United States tennis championship for the third successive year yesterday, conquering Little Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

Outmanoeuvring her diminutive opponent with vicious chop-shots and spinners, Miss Jacobs retained her title in forty-three minutes of play and became the third player to win the championship three straight years, equaling the record of Molla Mallory and Helen Wills Moody.

Except for a brief lapse in the second set, the champion had the perfect touch. Her control was unshakable.

Another decisive factor in the champion's triumph was her service. Miss Jacobs was credited with four clean aces.

WIN DOUBLES
Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey then paired to win the doubles title. They teamed well together to defeat Dorothy Annus, of Stamford, Conn., and Carolyn Babcock, of Los Angeles, the beaten players in the singles semi-finals Saturday, in three sets, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In an exhibition match, Fred Perry, British holder of the United States men's title, and Rodger Menzel, towering Czechoslovakian, broke even, Menzel winning the first set, 9-7, and Perry taking the second set, 6-4.

A few minutes after Helen Jacobs won the U.S. women's tennis championship for the third successive year she received an offer from Bill O'Brien, sports promoter, to turn professional provided a suitable opponent could be found for her.

Miss Jacobs smiled and said: "I'm not considering turning professional."

At the same time there was a rumour O'Brien had offered to defunct Wills Moody a flat sum of $25,000 to give up her amateur standing.

Princeton's Great Miller Races to Victory Over New Zealander in Paris

PARIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Bill Bonthron, Princeton's great miller, finally turned the tables on Jack Lovelock, yesterday, defeating the New Zealander over the 1,500-metre route as touring athletes of the United States made a clean sweep in the closing meeting of their European tour.

Bonthron won in the slow time of 3 mins. 57 secs. to avenge three previous losses. He suffered at Lovelock's hands.

As usual both Bonthron and his British rival jockeyed for positions far behind the pace-maker in the early stages of the race. Finally, with 300 metres to go, Bonthron made his bid. Flying along at a speedy clip, he raced into the lead with Lovelock close behind.

For once the New Zealander could not match Bonthron's finish spurt, and the big Princeton star held his lead to the finish.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20 (CP).—The fourteen-mile canoe race from Vancouver to Bowen Island was won, Sunday, by Bob Teaborton and Harry Russell, of Vancouver, in two hours and thirty-five minutes. British Columbia Agricultural Association will open an office at 213 Skyscraper Building on August 27 for the convenience of exhibitors at the annual fair to be held at the Willows, September 10 to 15, inclusive. Clarence Stranski Falls to His Death Down Elevator Shaft—Accident Follows Dispute

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20 (CP).—Clarence Stranski, well-known Pacific Coast jockey, was killed in an elevator accident yesterday while going to his room in a local hotel.

According to police, Stranski stood near the door, and between the main and first floors, overbalanced and fell. His head caught between the floor of the elevator and the shaft wall and the skull was badly crushed. He was dead before he could be taken to hospital.

Stranski had been riding this season under the colors of the Creswell Stable. He is survived by his father, Anton Stranski, of Cicero, Illinois, who is the only known relative.

The fatality followed an altercation in a cafe. Police separated Stranski and a number of other men who were in dispute. The trouble started again in the hotel lobby and police once again restored peace. Stranski, with two companions, then decided to go to his room and the accident happened in the elevator.

INVADER II OUTSAILED

Conewago Wins First Race of Series for Eight-Metre Class Boats

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Increasing an advantage gained at the start, the Conewago, of the Rochester Yacht Club, today won the first race of the Canada Cup series from the Invader II, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, by an unofficial margin of 2 minutes and 37 seconds.

Conewago went into the lead on the last leg of the eighteen-mile course with an advantage of 4 minutes and 12 seconds, but the Canadian yacht again showed her superiority in running before the wind, and shaved 38 seconds from the lead.

The course was completed in a little less than three hours, a notable achievement for boats of the eight-metre class. Judges indicated they would set a triangular course of twenty-one miles for the second race, tomorrow.

PORT WARDEN IS ENDORSED

Board of Inquiry Finds Douglas Stone Is Capable Official

PORT ALBERNI, Aug. 20.—A board of inquiry which sat here last week to investigate certain charges against the port warden, Douglas Stone, has now handed down its judgment, in which it finds that the complaints were not justified and that the port warden is quite capable of carrying on his duties.

Some months ago the Federal Government decided that, owing to its importance in shipping, a port warden should be appointed, and after considering several persons, selected Douglas Stone. The local board of trade was not satisfied with the appointment and A. W. Neil, M.P., made several complaints to Ottawa, stating that Mr. Stone did not have the capabilities for the position.

As a result of the complaints of Mr. Neil a court was held consisting of Captain G. E. L. Robertson, of Ottawa; Commander A. H. Reed, R.N.R., harbor master of Vancouver; and Captain F. Saunders, superintendent of pilots of Vancouver. Captain Robertson, as chairman, stated the reason why they were in Port Alberni and asked for any complaints. Mr. Neil then addressed the board, stating that he objected to Mr. Stone and he gave his reasons. The board advised Mr. Neil that he was evidently under a misunderstanding regarding the duties of a port warden, and that there was nothing in the Canada Shipping Act requiring that such an officer should be held by a person holding master's papers.

The chairman made every effort to secure complaints against the appointment from members of the board of trade who were present, but there were none forthcoming. Mr. Stone was asked to state his qualifications and showed that he had been connected with marine shipping matters practically all his life, and that he was a marine and naval architect, having studied in England. He was asked a number of technical questions by the board, all of which he answered promptly, and from these answers evidently made a satisfactory impression on the members.

Members of the board of trade who were present were very much impressed with the fair and pleasing manner in which the board conducted the investigation. There was little doubt that the findings would be favorable to the port warden.

PLANES ARRIVE HOME AFTER LONG FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Ten United States army bombing planes, composing the Alaska flight squadron, landed at Bolling Field today, completing their 10,000-mile round trip to the North. Several hundred persons cheered the flyers as they swooped to earth after circling the city.

Weatherman Not Consulted About Inter-City Service

LONDON, Aug. 20 (CP).—The new inter-city air mail service was inaugurated today, inauspiciously, because the weatherman had not been consulted when the date was set.

A storm was raging in Scotland when two planes left Glasgow, southward bound. Passengers were shaken up, cut and bruised, but the planes were enabled to keep to their route through directional wireless.

One plane reached Belfast promptly, and returned over the Irish Sea, but was forced down at Manchester. Services between Liverpool, Birmingham, Bristol, Cardiff, Cowes, Plymouth and Southampton were successfully conducted.

Abandon Hope for Canoeist

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Aug. 20 (CP).—Any lingering hope for the safety of Jack Smith, the missing canoeist from Peterborough, Ont., was abandoned today with the discovery of his empty canoe at Point

La Fontaine, on the west coast of Newfoundland. Washed in to shore at the lonely outpost, the sixteen-foot craft in which Smith hoped to make an ocean crossing to Peterborough, England, was identified by its name, Pride of Peterborough.

AIR TRAVEL DISCOVERED

British Holiday-Makers Take to Flying—All Traffic Records Broken

LONDON, Aug. 20.—British holiday-makers have discovered air travel. Every traffic record, on internal and external routes, has been broken during the past three days. Regular services were doubled, trebled, quadrupled. Imperial Airways' traffic officers dealt with seventy-six services on one day alone, forty-four of them cross-channel and thirty-two between London and the Isle of Wight. Those seventy-six services carried 571 passengers, a far higher single-day figure than any previously reached.

From early morning till late at night the air-liners have flown with full loads. And activity was not confined to the London Terminal Aerodrome, Croydon. Heston, most popular of all airports with the private flyer, was extremely busy, dealing with departures and arrivals of touring craft, specially chartered taxiplanes and air liners. Edward Hillman, who runs an unsubsidiarized regular service between London and Paris, was obliged to triple his services, three machines leaving at scheduled times instead of one.

The London-tale of flight service employed five Spartan "crusier" monoplane, each with capacity for six passengers. Throughout the week-end these machines flew steadily back and forth, carrying holiday-makers from London to one of England's favorite resorts in less time and with much less trouble than the surface journey, which demands an annoying change from train to ferry-boat. Machines plying between England and the Channel Isles were filled to capacity.

Cunard-White Star Company Releases Startling Figures

No. 534 Will Cross Atlantic in Four Days—Hull of First Liner, Britannia, Could Pass Through Its Funnel

The name of the new Cunard-White Star superliner, now known as No. 534, will be divulged twenty-four hours before the hull slips down the ways at Clydebank, Scotland. Queen Mary, attended by King George V, will launch the new steamer, on Wednesday, September 26. The ship will be at least 1,018 feet long and register 73,000 or more gross tons. She will cross the Atlantic, from England and France, in four days. The cost of the superliner has been estimated at $30,000,000.

The vessel will have eleven decks, one, the first-class promenade, being 750 feet long, just thirty-five feet less than the entire length of the Mauretania. She will be five times the length of the original Cunarder, the Britannia. The height to the mainmast will be 250 feet.

Breaks Speed Record for Women Flyers

The Clyde River has been widened and deepened for the launch- ing at a cost of $400,000. The new superliner is being built in the yards of John Brown & Co., Ltd., where the Aquitania was built.

There will be three funnels. The first funnel will be more than seventy feet in height, the other two lower. This arrangement will keep the decks and ventilators clear of funnel gases. The hull of the first Cunarder, the Britannia, could be passed through any one of the funnels of the new superliner.

The ship will contain fifty miles of plumbing pipes. The electric lighting system is sufficient to service a city of more than 150,000 inhabitants, such as Albany, Tendon, Jacksonville. Steam will be generated in twenty-seven enormous boilers. The number of tubes in the main and auxiliary condensers will approximate 60,000. The electrical wires used would reach from New York to San Francisco and then 400 miles out into the Pacific Ocean.

The giant's stacks will be thirty feet in diameter, exceeding the Holland Tube, the world's largest, between New York and Jersey City, by six inches. From the keel to the top of the foremost funnel is equal to the height of an eighteen-story building.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BOY NOT AFRAID OF BULL

IRON RIVER, Wis., Aug. 20 (CP).—Who's afraid of the big bad bull? Not the five-year-old son of Mrs. Fred Scherer, of Winnebago, at any rate. When a bull attacked and bruised the mother, the little boy, hearing her screams, beat the animal with a club long enough to allow her to flee.

ALLEN TURNS IN FINE CARD

Plays Difficult Gorge Vale Course in 72—Scores 36 on Each Side

Breaking par on the outgoing nine by two strokes and then keeping pace with perfect figures on the back stretch, H. H. Allen turned in a brilliant 72 for the long and difficult Gorge Vale course, Sunday afternoon, while playing with Frank Thomas. The card is the best ever turned in over the full eighteen holes. He reached the turn in 36 and raced over the last nine in the same figures.

In compiling his great card, Allen started off with a birdie on the first hole and then parred the next seven holes in succession. Another birdie on the ninth gave him even four for the outgoing nine. On the last part of the journey he had three pars, then caged two birdies with a three and a deuce at the thirteenth and fourteenth holes, respectively. He got another par at the next hole and then had his first over par figure at the sixteenth, taking a four. Allen finished up with another perfect figure, and a five on the last hole.

Lewis allowed nine safeties, three more than Gray, but kept them well scattered.

Arrows scored in the first half of the second, when Adhesed singled, went to second on an error and came in on Red's drive to left field. The clubbers tied it up in their half of the inning. Charlie Miron walked, stole second and scored on Frasolini's single.

BATTLING elimination twirler, made his debut for the Cafe Poodle Dog to three bingles, but in the seventh frame rally, when the looser pushed over three runs, they collected 50 per cent of their hits from the Tillicums' stab artist.

"Lefty" Morgan, former Sidney twirler, made his debut for the Cafe Poodle Dog to three bingles, but in the seventh frame rally, when the looser pushed over three runs, they collected 50 per cent of their hits from the Tillicums' stab artist.

Showing fight all of the way, the Tillicums clouted the combined offerings of "Lefty" Morgan and Bill Holness, Poodle Dog hurlers, for fifteen safeties, including a triple by Patterson, two doubles by Carr, and two-base hits by Gibbons and Resell.

Lloyd Jones, who hurled the Tillicums to a 3-3 score, Friday evening, went to the mound again last night, and, except for a last-inning

Sons of Canada And Eagles to Battle Tonight

WITH a one-game lead to their credit, Eagles will battle the Sons of Canada in the fourth game of the Twilight Baseball League play-offs at the Royal Athletic Park this evening at 6:15 o'clock. Joe Emery will go to the mound for the feathered tribe, with Henry Woodford as his battery mate. Dick or Walker will do the heavy work for the Canadians, with Montesi at the receiving end. After dropping the first game, the Eagles took two straight and will be out for their third win tonight. Anxious to stay in the running for the prized A. E. Humphries Cup, symbolic of the league championship, the Sons will be fighting all of the way to take this evening's encounter.

Bob Brown, Vancouver baseball mogul, stated here tonight.

The touring big league stars are scheduled to split into two teams when they leave the East, one team touring across Canada and the other through the United States and the Pacific coast to here, where they meet. They leave on October 20 from here for the Orient.

Babe Ruth and Jimmy Fox and Lou Gehrig, who are fighting for Stanley McCabe, who had got in to bat shortly before Saturday's close.

With a double to long leg, McCabe completed his thousandth run in test cricket. Edward Clark, the fast bowler from Northants, was stationed at the pavilion end. He set a leg trap, including Hammond, Verity and Allen, close-in, with Woolley in the slips. When McCabe singled just wide of Allen's left hand, Sutcliffe was moved up to complete a leg trap of four men. Allen then got to work, and terminated what looked to be a promising innings for McCabe.

A fine-length fast one rooted up McCabe's middle stump after he had scored only 10 runs, including 3 Saturday, and the third wicket was down for 468 runs.

RECEIVES OVATION
Captain W. M. Woodfull came out to partner Ponsford, and received an ovation, this being probably the last test match in which he will appear. He opened up with a smash to the slips for 2. Ponsford batted dourly through the slips and Myatt closed them up. Ponsford did it again to send up 501 runs on the board, in six hours and ten minutes of the innings.

The attack began to get the upper hand after all the weary waiting for England.

Hammond and Clark took over the bowling with 507 runs on the board, suggesting the pitch was getting nippy. Woodfull scored only 10 runs in his first half-hour.

Verity replaced Hammond, and the master slow bowler kept the batsmen quiet for a time. Leyland's snappy fielding saved many runs against Verity.

Ponsford reached his own 250 runs after batting for seven hours and ten minutes. Right after he faced Bowes, and almost played on to his wicket.

Ponsford put on a final spurt just before lunch, and it proved his downfall. He cut Allen to the rails and then turned his back once too often to what appeared another fast bumper aimed at him. A terrific shout went up as he hit his own wicket. Ponsford had batted for seven and a half hours to compile his 286 runs, which included a five and twenty-seven fours.

The fourth wicket went down for 574 runs, and lunch was taken. Ponsford explained he shifted the balls with his bat as he swung around.

AUSSIES' BATSMEN AMASS GREAT TOTAL IN DECIDING MATCH

Only Twenty-Eight Runs Behind All-Time Test Record—Ponsford Scores 266 Before Being Bowled—Bowes Bows in Great Form—England Replies With 90 for No Wickets

THE OVAL, LONDON, August 20 (CP).—England resumes her uphill fight in the fifth and final test cricket match with Australia tomorrow, 411 runs behind, but with all wickets intact.

The Aussies were not disposed of today until they had amassed 701 runs, only 28 runs short of the all-time test record. Undismayed, England set about a reply and within the hour of play remaining those two happy warriors, Herbert Sutcliffe and C. F. Walters, had posted 96 runs on the board without losing a wicket.

It rained for a brief period before the match resumed, but the wicket at The Oval, the condition of which was largely responsible for Australia's amazing scoring, was well guarded and was not affected, although late in the day it appeared to be wearing slightly.

Australia went back to the wickets at the resumption with 478 runs for the loss of two. The third wicket early when Stanley McCabe was bowled, but W. H. Ponsford, who, with Don Bradman, Saturday, set a new test partnership record of 451 runs, remained until he had completed an individual score of 266 runs. Then he hit his own wicket swinging away from a fast bumper.

PONSFORD BOWLED
Once Ponsford had been disposed of the English had little trouble, though Captain W. M. Woodfull was usual, was stubborn, while W. A. Oldfield was still unbeaten with 42 runs at the close of the innings.

Woodfull scored forty-nine runs for his men. But the brunt of the Australian defence was broken when Ponsford went. At his dismissal the board showed Australia had 574 runs for four wickets. The last six went for 125 runs, roughly twenty apiece. William Bowes, the towering Yorkshire fast bowler, was going great guns, taking three wickets in four overs at one period.

VIGOROUS ATTEMPT
Twenty-eight thousand persons left the grounds in the evening with some hope that England may equal the Aussie first-innings tally, big as it is. Sutcliffe and Walters gave a most vigorous exhibition, putting thirty-three runs on the board within twenty minutes, thirty of them from Walters.

There is no time limit in the match, in view of the fact it decided the season's rubber. Australia won the first test; England the second, and the third and fourth encounters were drawn games.

Captain R. E. S. Wyatt, of the English team, was not down-hearted at the huge Australian first-innings total. "There is no reason why we should not get as good a score," he told a newspaperman.

Allen started the bowling with Stanley McCabe, who had got in to bat shortly before Saturday's close.

With a double to long leg, McCabe completed his thousandth run in test cricket. Edward Clark, the fast bowler from Northants, was stationed at the pavilion end. EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
The Ever-Blooming Rosebush—August 19, 1934, was "National Pilgrimage Day" to the shrine of Lourdes where, in 1858, the Blessed Virgin appeared to a little peasant girl, announcing to her "I am the Immaculate Conception."

Hundreds of thousands of pilgrims annually flock to pray at the grotto where the Virgin appeared to the little girl eighteen times. The cave now holds a statue of Our Lady of Lourdes, depicted as she appeared to the little peasant. Beside the statue there is a rosebush which, it was assured, blooms continuously the year around.

Big Field Opens Play in Annual Golf Meet at Popular Alberta Summer Resort

BANFF, ALTA., Aug. 20.—Out of a field of over 150 men and women golfers entered, respectively, in the Prince of Wales and Brewster Cup tournaments, which opened Banff's golf week today, only eight men and eight women survived for tomorrow's championship play. The Banff Springs golf course underwent the busiest day in its history, and darkness caused the postponement of some of the minor flights, until early tomorrow morning.

Fred G. Hoblitzel, of Toronto, former winner of the Prince of Wales Trophy, and Gordon McWilliams, of Calgary, runner-up a couple of seasons ago, both qualified safely for tomorrow's second round in the Prince of Wales play.

Hoblitzel incidentally carded a 75 in his first round, the lowest score so far made in the current competition, and Mrs. Willard Shepherd, of Los Angeles, led the Brewster Cup scores with a creditable 86.

The first round of play in the Willingdon Cup Handicap starts tomorrow afternoon. The male survivors for tomorrow's Prince of Wales eliminations are: Fred G. Hoblitzel, Toronto; Dr. Joseph Rifeun, Wykagyl Golf Club; J. G. Chaston, Calgary; L. C. Crosby, Banff; William McMillen, San Francisco; Gordon McWilliams, Calgary; N. Debrisay, Winnipeg; and J. Kilgour, Winnipeg.

The women who, today, qualified for tomorrow's first round for the Brewster Cup are: Mrs. Willard E. Shepherd, Los Angeles; Miss Jean E. McMillan, Calgary; Miss Winifred Evans, Vancouver; Mrs. J. Train Gray, many times city champion of Calgary; Mrs. N. Debrisay, Winnipeg; Mrs. R. H. Madocks, Edmonton; Mrs. Lewis Kaye, Louisville, Ky.; and Mrs. G. Hamilton, Vancouver.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Paced by the mighty combination of George Lott and Lester Stoefen, ambitions to retain their crown, the field of thirty-two players in the United States doubles tennis championships whittled itself in half today, but first-round play took an unexpected toll in the needed 11st. Although none of the ranking duos which saw action during the day came close to defeat, a default by Bryan "Blitz" Grant, the Atlanta ace, and the New York teammate, Gene McCauliff, left only seven of the eight ranked American pairs in the second-round bracket.

Along with them were Fred Perry and Frank Wilde, English aces, and the South African-Czechoslovakian pair of Vernon Kirby and the giant Roderick Menzel.

Ten Victoria Fishermen Qualify for Port Angeles Salmon Derby

Ten well-known anglers will carry Victoria's colors into the Port Angeles salmon derby, carded for September 2 and 3, after qualifying at the local semi-finals, held on successive Sundays. The first half of the contingent was named on Sunday, August 11.

Fishermen who qualified yesterday and the weights of their fish were: G. Simpson, twenty pounds; Jack Leatham, eighteen pounds; H. Cook, fifteen pounds; George "Joker" Paston, twelve pounds; J. Herring, eleven pounds.

Members of the team who qualified on the previous Sunday, and the weight of their fish, are: J. Fairall, twenty-four pounds; F. Smith, seventeen pounds; H. Chisholm, fifteen and three-quarters pounds; F. Ray, fourteen pounds; and "Red" Peters, fourteen and three-quarters pounds.

All fishermen who have qualified for the Port Angeles event are requested to communicate with Stan Shemilt, who is in charge of the local arrangements, before 5 o'clock today.

Some large fish were hooked out of the water in Inlets, and the beach around the weighing-in spot was littered with tyes.

MANY FINE CATCHES
Alfred Clarke, of 148 Moss Street, according to the Victoria and Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, hooked a thirty-three-pound beauty out of the smooth water around Whittaker's Point. As he was alone in his boat, he landed the fish single-handed.

Bill Rowe also hooked a beauty when he pulled in a twenty-eight-pound salmon yesterday.

Two visitors also had luck with the line and tackle at Brentwood, according to a report of the Victoria and Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association.

Fred B. Lewis, of Los Angeles, caught a twenty-two-pound salmon from Bill Thomson's boat on Friday, while H. H. Keith, of Pasadena, Calif., hooked a twenty-three-pounder from Bob Stacey's boat.

DIZZY DEAN OKAY AGAIN WITH CARDS

Talkative Pitcher in Conference With Club Moguls and Kenesaw Landis

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Dizzy Dean and the Cardinals, after loud and prolonged wrangling, were at peace again tonight.

The dippy one was reinstated by Manager Frankie Frisch following a hearing before baseball's "car," Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Much dirty linen came in for noisy discussion at the hearing. In theory, the hearing, by decree of Landis, was closed. In fact, however, the discussion became so noisy it sounded through hotel corridors.

This was the seventh day of Dizzy's suspension, which he brought on by failing to attend an exhibition game at Detroit, last Monday, and by balking at a $100 fine. Landis found the suspension of ten days imposed Thursday by Frisch on the star right-handed pitcher was not unreasonable.

"Whether Dizzy will come back before the ten days are up is between the club and the president," he said.

"Let's make it seven," said Manager Frisch.

COST PLENTY
Rebellion against the club discipline cost Dizzy $486. His pay for seven days, which he lost through suspension, amounted to $350. Two uniforms he tore on being informed by Frisch he was indefinitely suspended, cost $36, and he was fined $100 at the outset.

Paul, pitching brother of Dizzy, also suspended for not making the Detroit trip, attended the hearing as witness. Paul was reinstated last week when he paid a $50 fine, plus the loss of two days' pay.

A prolonged investigation of Dizzy's alleged sex arm on a New York invasion a short while ago, came up for noisy discussion. It brought out that Dizzy said at New York that he would develop a sore arm whenever he needed it.

City Golf Meet To Open Sunday At Colwood Club

PLAYERS competing in the annual city golf championship, which will open next Sunday at the Royal Colwood course with the thirty-six-hole qualifying round, will have the privilege of practicing at the scene of the tournament. Friday, and again on Friday, August 31, the day before the match play opens, without paying green fees, it was announced yesterday by officials of the club. A record field is expected to face the starter and some of the best golfers in the city should be in the thick of the scramble for the Sturt. Bob Morrison, Upham Club, and a member of the winning British Columbia Willingdon Cup team, will be defending champion, and is hoping to repeat his triumph of twelve months ago.

HORSES RACE TO DEAD HEAT

Puako and Pop Flash to Neck and Neck in Kitsilano Handicap

VANCOUVER, Aug. 20 (CP).—Puako, from the stables of J. J. Ross, and Pop, Leo Bancroft's sprinter, raced down the stretch to the wire in the Kitsilano Handicap feature event on today's Brighouse Park racing programme, to finish in a dead heat, the first of the season and only the second in fourteen years here.

Both horses came from far back to stage spectacular sprints and finish neck and neck.

Pop, the favorite, paid $3.75, $4.75 and $3.55, while Puako rewarded his backers with $16.55, $16.10 and $10.90.

Under a clever ride by Jockey Stucki, Myrtle C. romped home ahead of the heavily-played favorite, Zelma M., in the sixth race. The day, $42.55, for a $2 mutual straight ticket.

In the Poodle Dog knockout series Painters' Bruins reached the semi-final round yesterday evening, at Central Park, when they defeated the Fernwood Merchants, 18-2. WEDDING WILL PRECEDE BIG BALL FIXTURE

Social Event Planned at Beacon Hill Wednesday During Sports Night

"Wedding bells have broken up that old gang of mine" may be a popular song phrase, but to the charming young lady who will join the ranks of the "benedicts" on Wednesday evening at Beacon Hill Park it is just so much baloney. While being the type of a lady who hates publicity, the young woman wishes it made known to the world that she will walk, stumble or crawl to meet her anxious and waiting husband, at the unusual ceremony on the grassy carpet of Beacon Hill Park as the opening event of the monster Hudson's Bay Co. sports night, in which General William Cox will lead his ball players against chief Cooper and his Braves from the Songhees Reservation.

Herbert Anson, M.P.P., former Mayor of Victoria and Reeve of Oak Bay, will support the trampling bridegroom, while Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands and Municipal Affairs, is going to give the "bride" away.

"Rev." F. G. Mulliner will read the sentence.

While many brides have walked to the altar in Victoria, none so charming and elegant as the little mite to be wedded Wednesday evening, has taken the vow here for a long time. Special costumes for the bride are being constructed by the Japanese silkworkers, while her exquisite gowns are being designed by Monsieur Piu Wilks.

During the evening prizes will be presented by Mayor David Leeming and Premier T. D. Pattullo will speak.

The entire programme will be preceded by a parade from the Hudson's Bay Co. store and will include many novelties, such as bike races, motorcycle polo and oodles of other attractions entertaining to grown-ups and children alike.

BAND IN ATTENDANCE
Led by the band of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, the parade will move off from the Hudson's Bay Company store at 5:15 o'clock and head for Beacon Hill Park.

Giving promise of being one of the most spectacular events of its kind presented here for many a moon, the parade will present Indians from the Songhees Reservation in their war paint and complete regalia; General William Cox's army ball-tossers, and the Saanich No. 5 war canoe crew, recent winners of the war canoe international championship at Coupeville, Widby Island. The Braves will carry their canoe and display the silverware they won at the big event.

With the arrival of the procession at Beacon Hill Park, a great evening of entertainment is promised with the wedding ceremony, Indians in their native war dance, and the presentation of a La Hoid game, one of the popular pastimes of years ago with the many tribes of Vancouver Island.

As on previous "big nights" at Beacon Hill, the children have been looked after with 4,000 bags of camelcrisp and candies.

Proceeds from the event, which is sponsored by the Hudson's Bay Company, will be donated to the Mill Bay Solarium.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

AMBITION

We all know what Shakespeare meant when he used the word "ambition" in the lines:

"Cromwell, I charge thee, fling
By that sin fell the angels."

"Ambition" is from the Latin "ambire," meaning "to go about." In the days of the Romans, this "going about" meant soliciting votes and was therefore associated with the urge for obtaining public office. In the course of time the word grew to take on the additional significance of the desire for power, money or preferment; while peculiarly, its use in the sense of canvassing has become obsolete.

FISHING GREAT ASSET TO CITY

Major Roger Monteth Speaks Before Gyro Club on Value of Sport to Community

One of the greatest assets of Victoria as a tourist centre is the fine sport fishing opportunities it affords for visitors, said Major Roger Monteth, president of the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association, yesterday, in an address before the local Gyro Club in the Empress Hotel.

The speaker traced the career of sport fishing from the time when but few boats were available and restrictions were unknown to the present day, when many fishing ships were anchored in streams, lakes and rivers near Victoria and Federal and Provincial Government restrictions were numerous.

"A fact not generally known is that the Federal department handles the sport fishing regulations," Major Monteth declared. He said the provincial authorities were in charge of commercial fishing enterprises.

It was pointed out that many attempts to have the non-resident permit reduced have been made by local game association men, but so far, nothing has been done. If this was cut, Major Monteth was of the opinion that tourist travel, as far as fishing enthusiasts are concerned, would be increased.

Find Nuggets Not Gold But Copper

MONTREAL, Aug. 20 (CP).—It looked fishy when a salesman offered gold for sale on one of Montreal's main thoroughfares for $14 an ounce, considerably less than half its market value. So the prospective customer called police, even though the sample of gold did look all right. Detectives arrested the man and found the nuggets he had for sale were nothing but cleverly disguised copper.

JAIL TERM GIVEN IN OPIUM CHARGE

Lee Kim Mun Also Sentenced for Attempted Suicide — Terms Run Concurrently

Pleading guilty to possession of opium, in proceedings brought by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Lee Kim Mun was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and a fine of $200 in the police court yesterday. A further term of two months was provided should the fine remain unpaid.

Lee Kim Mun pleaded innocent to a charge of attempting to take his own life while in custody of the city police, but was convicted and sentenced to a term of six months' imprisonment, concurrent with the previous sentence.

Leonard E. Clarke, accused of breaking a plate glass window in the premises rented by the Piggly-Wiggly Corporation, on Douglas Street, was remanded until August 24 for hearing.

Alex Williams, an Indian, paid a fine of $10 for a motortruck lapse from sobriety, in proceedings under the Indian Act.

Several motorists were assessed fines for breach of city traffic and parking regulations.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If August 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m., and from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m.

Today may prove the wisdom contained in the saying: "Silence is golden." If you are not careful, speaking too freely might possibly lead to complications. Business affairs should, on the whole, be encouraging. Curtailment of credit might prove a mistaken policy, causing resentment which may result in the loss of a valuable customer. A man whose judgment is decidedly warped may offer you some advice. Be cautious and if you decide to accept it, weigh carefully what the possible results might be, before acting on his recommendation. Today is a good one on which to issue or accept invitations of a social nature. Love affairs should prosper and everything pertaining to them should prove most harmonious.

If a woman, and August 21 is your natal day, avoid taking life too seriously if you wish to enjoy it. Do not let little trifles aggravate you. Making mountains out of mole hills is using up a lot of good energy in the wrong direction. Your many fine qualities must be brought out by yourself, personally, and your family and friends will readily recognize them. Your intellectuality and affectionate disposition should prove magnetic attractions. Your vivid imagination should enable you to be successful as a writer of fiction. School work should also prove of interest to one of your disposition. Women of your type usually are most attractive to men. Matrimony should prove a most successful venture, for you have all the attributes required to make a man thoroughly happy.

The child born on August 21, when it reaches its teens, must learn there is a time for work and a time for play. This child may be inclined to become too much absorbed in its studies to become interested in out-of-door sports. Every precaution should be taken to see it gets the right amount of physical exercise.

If a man, and August 21 is your birth anniversary, avoid being too strict in business and over-indulgent at home. You should be very successful in any business or profession you follow. Your enthusiasm and steadfastness of purpose should enable you to attain an enviable position, as well as financial independence. Married life should prove attractive to you, as your nature craves affection.

He was seated in the parlor and he said into the light: "Either you or I, old chap, will be turned down tonight!"

The Laughing Girl MYSTERY By Viola Parachase

CHAPTER XXI

When Dr. Coe had gone, Alby opened the door into the waiting-room. Adelaide and Sheridan were sitting close together in tense silence. Dinard was looking away into space, his eyebrows drawn tight.

"After all, Dinard," Alby said, "I won't want you now. I'll call later this evening at Miss Sayre's."

Adelaide sighed with relief. But Sheridan shattered the plan. "I can tell you now who the girl is," he said huskily.

"Sherry!" Adelaide cried. "Oh, Sherry, why didn't you tell us?"

Alby said sharply, "Get in there, both of you," and stood back to let them pass into his office. Then he strode to his desk and pushed a button. Almost immediately Harrod appeared, notebook in hand.

"Mr. Dinard," Alby told him, "has at last decided to confide in us. Well, what's her name?"

"I remember only her first name. It's Daisy. She is—a distant cousin of mine."

"Quit stalling," Alby exclaimed. "What's the girl's name?"

"I don't remember. I've been trying to recall it since the florist said—"

"So! You didn't remember she was your cousin till the florist said something. A blond cousin, with lavender eyes and a short upper lip. Do you think you can go on making fools of us—"

"I saw her just once in my life," Sheridan's manner was gravely quiet. "I was the little boy who held her up to smell the roses. In that English garden."

Alby's anger abated. He studied Sheridan appraisingly and lighted a cigarette. Then with his usual politeness, he gave the familiar command, "Go on."

"Not only the name, but the whole episode. There was a garden and a sundial in the middle of a bed of lavender. My mother said, 'This is your little cousin Daisy. Dainty took my hand and showed me the garden. I remember lifting her up to smell the tall roses, and she laughed—a funny gleeful laugh. Like the one I heard yesterday, but, of course, a child's. Don't you see that explaining how I knew what she would look like?'"

"When was this? How old were you?"

"Eight or nine. She was younger. It's still hazy. Or rather patchy. Do not let little trifles aggravate you. Making mountains out of mole hills is using up a lot of good energy in the wrong direction. Your many fine qualities must be brought out by yourself, personally, and your family and friends will readily recognize them. Your intellectuality and affectionate disposition should prove magnetic attractions. Your vivid imagination should enable you to be successful as a writer of fiction. School work should also prove of interest to one of your disposition. Women of your type usually are most attractive to men. Matrimony should prove a most successful venture, for you have all the attributes required to make a man thoroughly happy."

"And this English garden of hers, just where was it?"

"I don't remember. But I think it wasn't hers. I think she was a visitor, too. I remember being disappointed because some other cousins who should have been there weren't. My mother said, 'It's too bad the little boys who belong in this garden are away.'"

"Go on."

"Then there was an old man. At least he seemed old to me. I think his last name was Sheridan. But I was told to call him Cousin Something—I can't remember what."

"Your memory is rather erratic. Isn't that natural, Mr. Alby? Try to remember one of many tea parties to which you were dragged at the age of nine. Even what I do remember may be inaccurate. Even Daisy I don't remember quite right. I remember liking her. And I remember the color of her eyes because they just matched the lavender where the sundial was. And her tawny colored hair. But her mouth, remember, Adelaide, I told you last night that her mouth wasn't what I expected? Daisy, I believe, had crowded, uneven teeth. Of course they could have been straightened."

Alby interrupted to say to Harrod, "When we're through here, get a report from the medical inspector."
